

Clockwise from bottom left: Fave Gaña (in a plastic outfit) and Marrelie Page, Alson Kelen (as an eco-gladiator) and Kathy Hutton, Brittany van Auken (as an octopus) and Zoey Meyers (as a jellyfish), and Rebecca Lathrop with a wonderful watercolor of the beach at Francis Reimers' Arno getaway. Photos: Karen Earnshaw

Wearable pieces a big hit at Jambo Arts show

Last week's Jambo Arts show was as fabulous as all of its predecessors, with one exception: The exhibition included a 'Wearable Art' section that eclipsed even the best of the artworks in popularity, with the crowd cheering and applauding as each model wove his or her way through the crowd.

Guests began arriving at the RRE Shoreline event at 6pm Thursday, with a gust of 'oohs' and 'aahs' wafting around the two showrooms.

Many of the artists and their pieces are well known to Jambo Arts fans, such as John Alefai's tattoo-style canvases, Rebecca Lathrop's water colors, and Raychelle Heath's jewelry. But a number of new Jambo Arts members also showcased their work.

The guests mingled and enjoyed refreshments as the circular stickers began appearing on the paintings and sculptures, signifying they'd been sold. And then, at 8:30pm, the parade began, led by Waan Aelon in Majel Director Alson Kelen.

The canoe guy was dressed as an eco-friendly gladiator, sporting an ingenious outfit made mostly of pieces of a palm tree and created by Assistant Director Kathy Hutton.

Highlights also included a crazy giant yellow piece of coral created by Coop student Tayne Bilyard and modeled by Rinkey Hersey; an adorable octopus and equally cute jellyfish created by Daryle Newman and modeled by Brittany van Auken and Zoey Meyers; and a 'blouse and bag' made out of plastic supermarket bags by Marrelie Page and modeled by Fave Gaña.

The following day saw school children from all over Majuro visit the show.

HO HO HO
 HO HO HO
 HO HO HO
 "You better watch out, you better not cry, you better not pout I'm telling you why, SANTA CLAUS is COMING TO TOWN!"

Ukot Boka Eo Association's Santa Photo Shoot is back!!

Where: Payless
When: December 8, 10, 11, 14, 15, 16-18
Times:
 Saturdays: 1-4pm
 Sunday: 2-5pm
 Weekdays: 4-7pm

$15 for first sheet and $10 for any sheets after Photo sizes vary.
 For further information please contact: 455-5297 or micalum.rmi@gmail.com

BIG Welcome to Our Airline!
ACE HARDWARE Christmas Decorations & Toys!

Staff and Management wish everyone a SAFE & HAPPY Gospel Day Friday, December 7th

+ Much, Much More...

Ace is the helpful place for your holiday shopping!